

COL. GOETHALS WILL BE CANAL GOVERNOR

PRESIDENT WILSON SENDS IN HIS NOMINATION TO THE SENATE.

WILL ACCEPT POSITION

Secretary Garrison is Authority For This Statement—Does Not Give Details of Arrangement.

Washington, Jan. 29.—President Wilson this morning sent in the nomination of Col. George W. Goethals, U. S. A. present chairman of the Isthmian canal commission, to be governor of the canal zone to take office April 1. It is understood the senate will act upon it at once.

Settles Discussion.

This settles the discussion of the past few weeks that Col. Goethals would resign from the army to accept the office of police commissioner of New York City according to statements given out by Mayor Mitchell of that city.

Garrison's Statement.

Secretary of War Garrison today announced that Col. Goethals would accept the governorship when offered to him. Mr. Garrison intimated that Col. Goethals' acceptance was unqualified. "I am not able to give out the terms of Col. Goethals' acceptance at the present time," said Secretary Garrison, "but it was whole and complete."

To Raise Money.

As chairman of the Isthmian canal commission, Col. Goethals now receives a salary of fifteen thousand dollars. The Panama canal act places the salary as governor at ten thousand. Representative Britton of Illinois today introduced a bill to amend the law to make the salary fifteen thousand as long as Col. Goethals holds the office.

Administration Bills.

Administration rural credit bills were introduced simultaneously in the senate and house today by Senator Fletcher of Florida and Representative Mess of Indiana. Members of the commission President Wilson sent abroad last summer to study the foreign system. The bills were for long term farm loans. Bills for short term loans were introduced yesterday. The introduction was a sequel to yesterday's conference at the White House.

Farm Land Banks.

The measures would establish in the treasury department a bureau of farm land banks under the direction of a commissioner and make provisions for the formation of such banks in any state under federal charter and federal inspection.

Daniels' Statement.

Secretary Daniels declared before the house naval committee today that the international agreement for a total cessation of naval construction would be preferable to a one year naval holiday, and while he hoped for ultimate disarmament among all naval powers it would be impracticable to suspend naval activities without a combination of at least two of the world's greatest nations.

Fortification Bill.

Representations of the unpreparedness for war and "the annual war scare" were recalled today by Representative Shirley of Kentucky when he presented the fortification bill to the house for general debate.

Representative Shirley referred particularly to Rear Admiral Vreeland's opinion given to the naval affairs committee yesterday to the effect that the United States was not in a position to defend the Philippines.

"I can assure the house that our fortifications are in no such condition of unpreparedness as to cause alarm," said Representative Shirley, "as to the Philippines the island of Corregidor, commanding the entrance to Manila Bay has been completely and strongly fortified and it is in a position to withstand attack for six months without assistance from the outside."

STORMY WEATHER RAISES PRICE OF LOBSTERS TO 43c

Portland, Me., Jan. 29.—Lobsters sold here today for cents a pound, the highest price of the season. Continued stormy weather has caused a scarcity.

CHINESE PRESCRIBE CONFUCIAN WORSHIP

Bill Outlining Religious Principles Passes Administrative Council.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Peking, China, Jan. 29.—A bill prescribing the worship of heaven and of Confucius by the president of the Chinese republic was passed today by the administrative council which took the place of the Chinese parliament recently dissolved by President Yuan Shi Kai. The measure was submitted to the council by Yuan Shi Kai himself.

It is understood that the president's idea is to set an example to the Chinese nation which he thinks needs the moral building influence of religion. The president will worship annually at the temple of Confucius and at the temple of Heaven in the same way as the Manchu emperors did, but without wearing the diadem.

LABOR LEADERS JOIN TO CONTINUE STRIKE

Michigan Official Men Unite Forces for Purpose of Aiding Mine Strikers to Continue Their Fight.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 29.—Labor leaders of Michigan holding official positions in almost every vocation allied with the Michigan State Federation of Labor today met in a conference at the state capitol today to decide upon a plan for raising funds to assist the striking copper miners of the Calumet region in continuing the industrial war which has been waged since last July.

Executive officials of the state federation authorized a statement denying a rumor that the conference might consider the advisability of recommending a state wide strike. It was said practically all of the delegates were opposed to such action and it was not expected that any delegate would bring the matter up, even for informal discussion.

Tanner Asks for Aid.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 29.—The mine owners of the Calumet region, the citizen's alliance, the Houghton grand jury, the Michigan militia, and Gov. Parsons were assailed today by Charles H. Tanner, auditor of the Western Federation of Miners in an address which he delivered before a conference of delegates representing every union affiliated with the Michigan State Federation of Labor. Tanner said there were from 8,000 to 9,000 union men still dependent on the Western Federation of Miners for food and clothing. He declared many of these men had large families and he urged the Michigan labor union to send men throughout the state soliciting funds to be spent in caring for those out of employment.

Archbishop's Answer.

The archbishop said he received daily protests from all sections of the community against forcible feeding, but declared that he could not give a definite answer to the suffragette appeal until he had heard the other side fully. He continued: "I am giving my earnest consideration of the matter."

Mrs. Dacre-Fox thereupon informed Archbishop Davidson that she was profoundly dissatisfied with his reply. She said she had to use only his personal influence to put an end to the system of forcible feeding.

FIGHTERS FOR VOTE FORCE ARCHBISHOP TO HEAR ARGUMENT

Band of English Suffragettes Besiege English Primate Until He Receives a Delegate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Jan. 29.—A band of militant suffragettes today besieged the archbishop of Canterbury, the English Primate, in Lambeth palace, and eventually forced him to capitulate and receive one of their number in order to discuss the question of forcible feeding.

Persistence Wins.

The women were headed by Mrs. Dacre-Fox. It took them upwards of an hour to gain admission to the old palace on the banks of the Thames a little above Westminster. They declined to listen to any attempt on the part of those within to temporize. Finally, the archbishop, seeing the futility of trying to escape from his obdurate blockers, allowed Mrs. Dacre-Fox to enter.

The head of the church of England listened sympathetically to the suffragette appeals, but he refused definitely to commit himself.

Mrs. Dacre-Fox told the prelate that she believed the cause was even justifiable he could not be a real Christian. She said she had to use only his personal influence to put an end to the system of forcible feeding.

CITY AND COUNTRY NEED CO-OPERATION

Various Ways of Uniting City and Rural Districts Discussed at Country Life Conference.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—Citizens of cities in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa told the Wisconsin Country Life conference this afternoon of ways they had used in uniting village or city and country. The speakers were Editor J. R. Nye of Wittenberg, Wis.; Principal M. T. Buckley of Sauk City, Wis.; C. B. Thomson of Richland Center, Wis.; A. W. Sagnorn of Ashland, Wis.; the Rev. L. P. Peake of Fond du Lac, Wis.; Secretary C. T. Boughner of Clinton, Ia.; and Editor L. J. Boughner of Minneapolis, Minn.

Editor Nye, who presided, said his town's success was due to corn, grain and vegetable co-ops, ending up with a minstrel show, free to all, which drew hundreds of farmers for miles around. Institutes and lectures also helped.

"Within a twenty-mile radius of Wittenberg," he said, "the automobile hasn't yet won classification as a farm necessity, but we have climbed to the point where the rural co-ops, daily papers and the rural telephone are reckoned useful, and I believe that we shall steadily and inch by inch, reach the heights of agricultural co-operation."

Those, too, will count that day lost whose low descending sun records not an added ten in bank and a century ante run. We're behind only because we're a few years behind the season northern Wisconsin will head the procession."

Sauk City's Way.

Sauk City's way of uniting city and country, according to Prof. Buckley is to invite the farmers to share in the Memorial day exercises, to share in material things, as in the organization of a cooperative cannery, factory and the state bank. A store that was remodeled last summer has rest rooms for everybody. The banks do the same for their farmer patrons. A community institute was started by the university and lectures from Madison talk on preventable diseases, good roads and how to get them, common interests of village and country, health, recreation, business and farm subjects. This community spirit, declared the speaker, is rapidly extending the village's trading area and adding improvements of many kinds.

"What farmers tell us we are experiencing a boom," he said, "and we are just finding ourselves," concluded the speaker.

Addresses at Banquet.

The mayors of cities and presidents of village and county associations, as well as the speakers, were tendered

TRANSFERRING CABLE LINES FOR THE NEW 'PHONE EXCHANGE

Rock County Telephone Exchange Completed and Linemen Slicing Cables for New Modern Service.

With the new exchange building, situated at the corner of Dodge and Jackson streets, completed and the main switchboard installed, the Rock County Telephone Company are making preparations for the operating of the new office as well as the old, located in the Jackson building, for to cut connections at the present time would seriously impair the service.

The company has had a force of seven experts working to set the cables and switchboard at the new exchange, and an outside force of ten men have been busy installing the cables and putting in new common battery phones in the office buildings where individual splicing was not necessary. While the new exchange will be used in a limited way within two weeks, the officials do not expect that it will be completed for two months, as a gradual change is necessary.

The new building is one of the modern exchange centers in the state, having all the latest devices in the phone business for rendering efficient service. The structure is declared the most fire proof in the city, as the walls are of pressed brick, the floors composed of tile and cement and the roof of fire proof metal. The interior is most beautiful, the walls being tinted a delicate terra cotta and the woodwork harmonizing with this shade.

In the basement there is a large repair room, a room for storage batteries, heating plant and an underground cable vault. The cables run up to the main floor in lead pipes, each pipe containing two hundred pairs of wires. From these tubes the wires run through a frame distributor and to a relay board where they are separated and thence to the switchboard on the top floor. The plan is for the centering of the wiring into a simple system and bringing the wires under control in a single room. On the second floor the general offices are situated.

The third floor is devoted to the operating department, one half of the floor being taken up by the switchboards and the remainder by rest rooms for the operators. The building is equipped throughout with a vacuum cleaning system which is run by a powerful motor. All the rooms are carefully ventilated and the company has afforded every comfort to its employees.

The seven men who have been employed in wiring the exchange have set the Kellogg's latest multiple switchboard, improvements on which have been perfected only a short time. A second board has been ordered and will be used in connection with the main board. With the new addition the board will have an ultimate capacity of three thousand straight wires, which are individual lines capable of being divided into many calls.

With the new system, by means of the multiple board, each operator can give the subscriber any connection desired, except rural toll, without delay. Under the old system calls were made by transferring from one operator to another before proper connections could be made.

The work of cutting over the lines from the old exchange to the new one has been a complex one. The process is slow because each set of wires has to be cut, spliced, cleaned and then tested, the lineman called the wire chief having the old line cut from the old exchange to the new connections.

The main cables from the west to the east side of the river have been relaid under Court street bridge. To prevent any damaging of service from fire, the wires and cables in the dangerous fire districts have been placed in the tunnels running underground. The capacity of the wire tunnels is one hundred per cent greater than is at present necessary to take care of the present number of subscribers. This plan has been followed, for once the service is complete the linemen will not have to tear up the streets to add cables, but connections will be made by splicing the extra wires.

Trouble with the underground wiring will be remedied by means of manholes which are located at intervals throughout the city, where there is a district connection. The advantages of this system are many, and it is the object of the company to gradually eliminate as far as practical all overhead wiring, doing away with the unsightly poles in the business blocks and lessening fire danger.

Every subscriber will be given new phones, known as the common battery variety. They are of steel, painted black, and the mouthpiece and ear drum are reinforced with metal for wearing qualities. Under the battery system the service will be entirely secret, as connections are so made that only two parties can be connected at the same time. When the receiver is lifted from the hook, an automatic connection is made between the party calling and the signalled operator. After the desired number is given proper connections are made by the operator, after which the call is automatically cut off from the line and can not make other connections unless signalled by one of the connected parties. Another feature of the common battery system is that although several parties may be on the same line, but one bell can be rung and there is no clicking and bell tapping as each telephone is equipped with a separate apparatus for ringing. The chief operator's desk will be provided with a monitoring system which will allow her to secretly find at any time the service each operator is giving.

FALLING HAIR AND ITCHING SCALP

Entirely Needless—Use Parisian Sage. It Quickly Removes Dandruff—Your Head Feels Fine.

Now that Parisian Sage can be had at any drug or toilet counter, it is certainly needless to have thin, brittle, matted, stringy or faded hair. No matter how unsightly the hair, how badly it is falling, or how much dandruff, use Parisian Sage—it is all that is needed. One application removes dandruff, the hair roots are nourished and stimulated to grow new hair, itching scalp and falling hair cease—your head feels fine. Best of all, the hair becomes soft, fluffy, abundant and radiant with life and beauty.

You will be surprised and delighted with Parisian Sage. Try at least one fifty cent bottle. Smith Drug Co. will refund the purchase price if you are not satisfied.

HORSE BREEDING IS BIG ASSET IN STATE

Statistics Show That Draft Horses Bring Enormous Revenue to Wisconsin Breeders.

The horse breeding interests of Wisconsin represent one of the most valuable assets, by far, of her live stock industry, according to the figures compiled in the office of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association. On January 1st, 1913, the value of Wisconsin horses was $87,115,000 and the value per head was $141 as compared with $80,848,000 and $124, respectively, in 1912. In 1900 the average value per head was $87. Dairy cattle next in value to horses, were worth $74,741,000 on January 1, 1913. A glance at the table shows that $131 per head, has increased materially, a mature horse, that is not worth more than $131 is considered a rather poor beast. Twelve year averages on the Chicago market are as follows:

1700 pound horse, approximately 235
1750 pound horse, approximately 250
1800 pound horse, approximately 275
1850 pound horse, approximately 340
1900 pound horse, approximately 370
1950 pound horse, approximately 400
2000 pound horse, approximately 450

Weight is important.

A glance at the table shows that weight is a prime consideration in the things being equal in determining the value of draft horses.

Statistics compiled from data gathered at Chicago, the greatest draft horse market in the world, point out that but 25 per cent of average sold here are eligible to enter the draft horse class. That is 75 per cent of all the horses sold are not draft horses because they are not big enough to pass the 1700 pound mark. Weight means dollars; horses advance approximately $100 for each additional 100 pounds they weigh over 1300 pounds.

It is estimated that but ten per cent of all horses sold are sound and otherwise fit for draft work. Breeding from sound sires and dams is essential if progress in the improvement of horses is to be continuous. Tendencies toward unsoundness are surely transmitted by sires and dams to their offspring. Ring bones, bone spavin, bog spavin, side bones, curb, thoroughpin, blindness and unsound wind are the most common defects that must not be overlooked.

"Grading up" is accomplished only by the constant use of pure bred sires. Grade or "scrub" stallions cannot accomplish any improvement since improvement means the mating of the best obtainable mares with pure bred, individually excellent sires. In Wisconsin all stallions standing for public service are labeled by law so that no farmer need be deceived as to the breeding of the male he intends to use.

Standard Improving. Dr. A. S. Alexander, in charge of the Department of Horse Breeding of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, shows conclusively in his 1913 report that the stallion enrollment law is steadily raising the standard of Wisconsin horses, a fact also shown by statistics appearing above. He estimates that the difference in value between a mature horse sired by a grade or a "scrub" stallion and one sired by a pure bred sire is easily $100. The 1913 report shows that there is approximately 1700 grade and "scrub" stallions licensed for service in Wisconsin. They would beget probably 51,000 foals in a year which, had they been sired by a pure bred stallion, would have been worth $5,100,000 more to the farmers owning them. "Despite these facts, owners of mares are so short-sighted that they patronize a grade or "scrub" stallion for the sole reason that the service fee is less. This is a "cheap" and foolish policy," declares Dr. Alexander, "and it is largely due to the general ill-advised use of grade and "scrub" stallions that keeps the average value of our horses so low."

OBITUARY

William C. M. O'Grady.

The body of William C. M. O'Grady will arrive in Janesville Friday afternoon. The funeral will be held from the St. Mary's church Saturday morning, instead of services and interment in Chicago, as formerly stated.

Herman Schumacher. Funeral services for Herman Schumacher were held yesterday afternoon from the late home, 613 Linn street, at two o'clock. Rev. Hoffmeister officiating. The pallbearers were: William Dufin, William Leonard, Fred Berndt, Frank Roach, Louis Anger and Louis Hoffmeister. Interment was made at Oak Hill cemetery.

DOUBLE-DECKED TABLE

Revolving Portion Which Dispenses With Much Passing of Dishes.

An improvement has been recently made in the construction of the dining table, which dispenses with much of the confusion resulting from the constant passing of dishes to and from another. The table is supplied with a raised portion in the center and it is designed to place upon this all articles which are to more or less constant demand by those seated around the table. This is either equipped with a clock work arrangement by which the smaller table is maintained in a revolving condition or it may be fitted with a lever near the floor at the base of the central column of the table, by which the movement is controlled by the foot of the hostess. When Mr. Smith desires the passing of dishes to the hostess, she merely touches the exposed end of the lever with her foot and the smaller table moves around slowly, so that Mr. Smith may take the sauce as it passes.

TRAINMEN AWAIT SNOW FOR WATER RATING TO INCREASE TRAFFIC

Because of the light amount of freight that all railroads have loaded during the winter months, railroad men are complaining of the short pay rolls as there has been very little extra work and the mild weather has allowed the officials to schedule all trains under summer rating. This, together with the order for radical reduction of expenses along the line, has worked hardships on the trainmen, for there has been a great deal of "bumming" on the part of the men and the younger employees have been laid off or given no chance to work. In the Milwaukee shops of the St. Paul road only a bare running force has been kept and the local office has been receiving orders to cut down on laborers. The hope of the railroad men, especially train crews, is for heavy and lasting snows, for with the first snow, a fair rate will be put into effect, which means a reduction of tonnage on trains, and where there are only two freights scheduled under the summer rating, there will be three or more under the winter schedule.

Trainmen have also complained of the dangerous condition of the roadbeds, stating the sudden thaws and heavy rains have made the local office make time speed dangerous. When the roadbed freezes and expands and then a thaw comes along, it leaves the track "bucked-up" and bumpy. All locomotives have been kept out of their runs with the sand domes full, for on grades the freighters have found it hard work to pull the long train of cars.

Station agents declare that there has never been a time in the past when trains have operated on time as this year, as the recent change has provided for what speed may be lost from poor roadbeds, there has been no snow to block traffic.

ST. PAUL OFFICIAL VISITS JANESVILLE FOR TRAIN CHECKING

A. E. Morrison, assistant to the general manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul system was in Janesville yesterday, conferring with local officials on the checking of short run freight trains as there have been orders given to cut off all trains possible in the movement for reduction of expenses. The matter of the "dog run" from Janesville to Milton Junction was under consideration, but it is not thought there will be any change in the schedule as this short haul is necessary for the freight movement on the divisions of Janesville and the Madison and Milwaukee lines. It is contemplated by this run and business has granted scheduling from two to four trips a night. The plan of cutting down short hauls that will not impair the regular service of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul for some time and switching systems will be given a thorough checking throughout the state.

The entire car repair force at the Chicago & Northwestern roundhouse attended the funeral of their late foreman Herman Schumacher, who was buried yesterday.

The new safety committee at the Janesville yards, composed of Frank Hennessey, chairman, J. Smith, Abraham Blum and W. Lawrence, were in Chicago yesterday for the regular monthly meeting and will return to Janesville this morning. James Cummings, machinist at the Northwestern roundhouse, has returned to work after a week's visit with Milwaukee relatives.

Engines number 198 and 233 from the Wisconsin division are in the shops for repairs.

Locomotives number 1279 and 42 are sent out for service after a general overhauling at the Janesville shops.

TO HOLD A SOLDIER BUTTON

It may Be Readily Turned Into a Brooch or a Hat Pin.

As a skirmish preliminary to an attack on his heart the girl who meets a soldier always undertakes to capture one of the buttons of his uniform. This is a feminine failing which exhibits itself all the world over. Upon his captivation and surrender of one of the buttons she immediately has it made up into a brooch or hat pin.

An English inventor has taken advantage of this universal weakness of the fair sex for soldier buttons and has designed a device which greatly simplifies the operation of setting the button.

MAKES BROOCH OR PIN OUT OF THE SOLDIER'S BUTTON.

His invention supplies a blank which will be sold at any well equipped notions or jewelry store by which it is only necessary to slip the button into it and at once the two are joined inseparably. One style of blank is supplied with a long pin which makes it suitable for a hat pin and the other has a safety pin attachment which makes the button trinket into a brooch. The device has been recently patented in this country.

ARCTIC EXPLORER WHO USES ICELANDIC HORSES STABLES THEM IN THE ICE

Five horses of the Koch expedition in a hole in the ice which served them as a stable in central Greenland.

The well-known Danish Arctic explorer, Captain J. P. Koch, has just returned from an adventurous journey across the inland ice of Greenland. This he crossed at its broadest place, which means that he had to cover nearly 750 miles. Progress was made with the aid of Icelandic horses, a fact which may cause a revolution in future Arctic travel. The animals were stabled in the ice as shown by the accompanying illustration. The expedition as a whole has been remarkable, not only for the energy and hardiness shown by the explorers, but for scientific results.

THE NEW BANKING LAW.

So much ignorance prevails concerning the new banking law, that the following statement from the American Review of Reviews, is of special interest. It will be noticed that the law provides for emergencies, and this is one of its strong features. "Under the new system, ordinary times the business of banking will go on very much as at present. Merchants and citizens will see no difference. The banks will continue to be independent business concerns, receiving deposits and lending money as heretofore. But in exceptional times, as in 1907, the banks would times, as in 1907, a great difference will be visible. In the panic of 1907, the banks would not even allow a depositor to draw out his own money—much less would they make customary loans on approved security, even to their most reliable customers. It was as if, in a time when the fire alarms were ringing to an unusual extent, the fire companies should decide to respond to no calls, but to keep the men and apparatus solely for the protection of the engine-houses. At the very time when the banks have been most needed in the exercise of their functions, they have ceased to function at all; and have thus magnified and intensified the business troubles that with a better system they could wholly have prevented. "Under our plan of having each bank an independent affair, the first symptom of financial stress led every banker to protect his own reserves lest he might become the victim of a 'run.' He lacked a higher financial power upon which he might rely for support in trying to help his business neighbors. The new system promises something like a complete remedy for such conditions. The banks are to be federated for mutual help under the auspices of a central government board. "To proceed with a simple explanation of the (Currency) bill, let us take the federal reserve bank that will be located at New Orleans as a starting point. This bank must have a capital of at least $4,000,000. It will have duties to perform for the region assigned to it, which will doubtless comprise the state of Louisiana and several adjacent states in whole or in part. All of the national banks in this district must become members of the system, and must subscribe in proportion to their capital to the stock of what will be called 'The Federal Reserve Bank of New Orleans.' State banks may also join the system upon their own application. This bank at New Orleans will be managed by a board of nine directors, three of whom will be named by the central board at Washington. Three of the other six will be bankers chosen by the membership banks of the district. The other three will be citizens of repute who are not bankers, but who will also be chosen by the membership banks. This bank at New Orleans will hold a part of the reserves of the membership banks, and will do a general banking business upon its own capital. "Let us suppose that in the time of the coming of the cotton crop a great deal of money is needed temporarily in the New Orleans district. This can be supplied in several ways. The secretary of the treasury, acting with the central reserve board at Washington, may transfer additional deposits from unused money in the treasury. The Federal Reserve Board may make temporary transfer to New Orleans of surplus reserve funds in the Federal Reserve bank at Chicago, or the one at New York. But the thing most particularly to be noted is the fact that the reserve bank at New Orleans will be prepared to rediscount cotton bills and commercial paper, and to supply the numerous membership banks with currency to be loaned to their customers upon such paper."

The reflex influence of the hospital campaign will be felt for good for months to come, because of its common interest so generously shared. This kind of work is always helpful. It brings the people together and demonstrates what can be done by united effort. Community life is so complex, and so many interests are involved, that it is always difficult to concentrate effort in any individual channel. That is why civic betterment and city development is so slow to respond. The strength of united effort was clearly demonstrated in the late hospital campaign, and knowing now what can be done, it will stimulate ambition for future efforts.

The army of 170,000 people in Chicago dependent on charity, means a city within a city, and the problem to be solved, is the cause of these deplorable conditions, and the remedy to reduce dependency. The people of Chicago realize that there is something radically wrong with conditions and they have discovered that nothing promotes pauperism so much as indiscriminate charity. It kills ambition and destroys independence. Employment is the only remedy and if the city is wise this will be furnished, before the army of dependents becomes entirely helpless through idleness, which destroys ambition.

AMONG WISCONSIN NEWSPAPERS.
The Esman Resignation.
The resignation of William Esman as superintendent of public property at Madison is connected with rumors of a scandal. It is claimed that charges of irregularity were made to Governor McGovern, resulting in a demand for Esman's immediate resignation.

Of course it will be unfortunate if it is found that one of the two employees of the state has failed in his duties, and no one will regret such state of affairs then the governor himself. Mr. Esman was one of the close friends and political aids of the governor in previous campaigns, although it is now stated there has been a lack of harmony between the two for some time. However, it is entirely to the credit of Governor McGovern that neither personal friendship or past services are sufficient to sway or influence him in the performance of his own duty, and that in this performance he knows no such thing as partiality. The Esman incident is to be regretted, but in no way can it be twisted into a reflection on the integrity of the governor.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

Go-To-Church Movement.
The Go-To-Church movement which has just recently been inaugurated in this city and which is being the chief topic of discussion in many other cities of the state promises to be a successful venture in Green Bay. The movement is a good one and is worthy of success. Years ago practically everyone was a regular attendant at some church. Time, however, has changed things and at the present time many Sunday after Sunday give heed to the services that are being held regularly in every church in the city and county.

The movement is not intended to affect any one sect but is intended to rekindle all members of churches who have fallen away from the practice set by their ancestors, fathers, grandmothers and grandfathers. Every Sunday should be a "go-to-church" day.—Green Bay Gazette.

ACT I.
Hero by the name of Hal Loves a simple country gal. She's a peach. Her name is Sal. Wed that Miss, he surely shall.

Villain wants the maiden much, Has her father in his clutch. Mortgage on the farm and such; Old man's cheerful as a crutch.

ACT II.
Villain says if he don't wed He'll foreclose the old homestead. Hero hasn't got a red, To the altar Sal is led.

Just before the words are spoke, Every year, "I know this bloke; He's a slicker and he's broke; Him or me has got to croak."

ACT III.
Villain steals the gal away; He'll wed her another day. Ties the hero, poor young Jay, To the railroad right of way.

Heroine, she gets a knife, Cuts the rope and saves his life. Then there comes the deadly strife To see which shall win the wife.

ACT IV.
Then there comes the boxin' bout, And the husky country lout. Knows the villain good and out. And he says: "She's mine, by krout!"

Hal says: "Though you done me wrong, Now to me you do belong." Pastor puts the wedding gong. Life is then one glad sweet song.

The Income Tax.
Dear Sir:—We have received the income tax blank you so kindly mailed us. You say that the blank must be returned by March 1st, but it is doubtful whether we can get it filled out in time. We are glad to give you the result of our first week's work on the list of questions, however. Here it is:

Born?—Yes.
Why?—We don't know.
Died?—Not yet.
Number of grandparents?—Two on each side.
Number of parents?—One on each side.

Married?—Considerably.
Children?—One children.
How many false teeth did grandmother have?—Don't know.
How many old grandfather have?—All.

How much did you earn last year?—$150,734.95.
How much did you get?—$216.
Have you any pets around the house?—Five goldfish and a hired girl.

Politics?—Episcopalian.
How much gold have you in your teeth?—$128 worth.
What is your middle name?—Kamachaka.

Do you dance the tango?—Yes, but we do not drink.
Have you any scars to identify you?—One rolling pin scar on back of head.
Do you put your money in a bank or in a sock?—We put our money in to our automobile.

What kind of auto do you drive?—A Nick cylinder.
Your race?—French-American by half German.
Have you lived in America all your life?—Not yet.

Our color?—Purple.
Condition of servitude?—Punk.
Do you love your employer?—Middlin', just middlin'.
Affinities?—None at present.

Color of underclothing?—Pink.
Do you suffer from any disease?—Lumbago, gout, hysteria, artistic temperament, rheumatism, housemaid's knee, spavin, squeaky joints and kleptomaniac.

(This is as far as we have got, but will try to answer the remaining questions by March 1st.)

THE SUCCESS THAT SUCCEEDS.
Again we have an illustration of the much noted fact:

Nothing succeeds like success. This time the exemplar is Colonel George Washington Goethals, the eminent engineer who has made a reality of an aspiration. He is the man who has made the "dirt fly" between Panama and Colon, who has dug the Panama canal after others have failed to do so.

He has done the "big job." Hats off to him! Before he became the chief engineer of the Panama canal on Feb. 26, 1907, few of us had heard of him unless we were in the army. He was known to army men as an engineer, and a good one, but to the main body of Americans and to the rest of the world he was only a name on the army list.

Now he lives among the immortals—because he was set to do a job and did it.

With its accomplishment have come fame and the opportunity of doing still further good work. From many corners of the country hands are outstretched to Colonel Goethals beckoning him to come and do other things that must be done. His name has been suggested as that of a good man for commissioner of police of New York city. Dayton, O., wanted him for "city manager."

When the "big job" is done Colonel Goethals will have no lack of work. It will seek him out, as it has a habit of seeking out all men and women who are able to do it. They cannot escape it, even if they wish, for the habit is ingrained in their natures.

He was an able engineer before the first American shovel overturned the first clod of dirt on the isthmus. He will be an efficient man long after the first steamer sails proudly from Panama to Colon.

But it is no disparagement of the man or of his work to say that he has grown with it. He is a better man than he was before he began his magnificent task.

Stature, mental and physical, grows with exercise. Ability increases as it is put to service.

Set yourself to do a task, however difficult, and you will gain in strength. It may be too much for you—you may never succeed at it—but the effort is the thing!

Colonel Goethals did not know when he began the digging of the canal that he would be able to carry it through to triumphant completion.

No one else can tell what he can do until he makes the attempt.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE WOULD USE PARCEL POST TO MARKET FARM GOODS
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—With the parcel post as the agent, the agricultural college is unfolding a plan of reducing the cost of farm and garden produce to city dwellers that is attracting wide attention at the farmers' course. It involves the shipment of commodities from the farm to city consumers in special cartons by parcel post or express, depending upon the size and character of the goods.

The shipping receptacles are of great variety. A five-pound package of fresh lettuce, value 50 cents is sent by mail at a cost of seven cents for postage and four cents for the container, making a total expense of eleven cents and bringing the total cost to the consumer up to 61 cents.

A ten-pound carton of home-made mince meat is listed at a cost of ten cents for the container and ten cents for the product. The exhibit on view postage added to the producer's price at Agricultural hall shows eggs, butter, apples, potatoes, cabbage, tomatoes, beans, and many other articles packed in attractive packages made of paraffin board and similar material, depending upon the use to which it is put.

On all the exhibit, grown in Wisconsin, the design being the product of Andrew W. Hopkins of the college. Emphasis is laid on the attractive package, quality of the product, and the guarantee label.

Remarkable Discovery That Cuts Down the Cost of Paint Seventy-Five Per Cent.

A Free Trial Package is Mailed to Everyone Who Writes.
A. L. Rice, a prominent manufacturer of Adams' X, has discovered a process of making a new kind of paint without the use of oil. He calls it Powderpaint. It comes in the form of a dry powder and all that is required is cold water to make a paint weather proof, fire proof and as durable as oil paint. It adheres to any surface, wood, stone or brick, spreads and looks like oil paint and costs about one-fourth as much.

Write to Mr. A. L. Rice, Manufacturer, 730 North St., Adams, Wis., and he will send you a free trial package. Also color card and full information showing you how you can save a good many dollars. Write today.

GIRLS! GROW LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR!
LUSTROUS, CHARMING—25 CENT DANDERINE

Removes every particle of dandruff, stops falling hair and is a delightful dressing.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

The most disastrous calamity since the eruption of Mount Pelee, and eclipsing even that disaster, was visited on the city of Kagoshima, Japan, which is reported totally destroyed with its population of 64,000 by a flood of fire from the Sakurajima volcano. The photograph shows the sulphurous vapors rising from the crater of the frightful depths of Asa-San, one of the largest of the volcanoes in that section of Japan, now affected by volcanic disturbances due to the eruption of Sakurajima.

Prices Marked In Plain Figures:

When you mark goods in plain figures there's no argument. When you are buying an article in any store it's safe to say that you have more confidence in the firm with whom you are dealing if the goods are marked in plain figures than you would have if they were marked in characters. In the first instance, you know that you are buying the article as cheap as it can be bought—but not so the other way, because if you happen to look easy to the salesperson the price may go up. You can't tell, and, in fact, would not know if the price was raised—would you? Our one price system has been one of the biggest factors in our success. We mark everything in plain figures. A child can buy as cheaply at this store as an adult. Think it over and then come and see for yourself.

NEWS STORY BRINGS OFFERS TO PROVIDE
HOME FOR CHILDREN

Poorfather Anderson Gets More Than a Score of Inquiries on Adoption Case.

No sooner were the first deliveries of the Gazette made in this city last evening, that Superintendent of Poor Asa P. Anderson began to receive telephone calls from persons who were ready and anxious to provide a home for the two Jordan children and whose sad and peculiar plight was treated in a news story in Wednesday's paper. Anderson answered no less than twenty calls all from persons residing in Janesville, who were eager to give the best of homes, amply provide for, and educate the two little folks. "We were ready to furnish references to the effect that they were responsible parties and many of them had an investigation of their homes or make certain that they were satisfactory places in which to rear children. Of course, persons making inquiry wished to see the children and most of them would have made a trip to any part of the city last night for the purpose. Mr. Anderson is not inclined to hurry the matter, however. He answered the inquiries, but questions which were asked, as best he could, and today he made arrangements to have the boy and girl brought to the home of Mrs. Mary E. Weiss, 116 North Main street, where it will be possible for persons desiring to adopt them or furnish them homes, to see them when they have made such arrangements with Mr. Anderson.

Some of the inquiries were ready to give a place for both children, while others would take either the boy or the girl. There were several applicants who have never before had their own, but they were as anxious and promised as good care as those who had none. Several persons came to Mr. Anderson to make inquiry. One elderly gentleman was especially eager to take the little girl. He loved children, he said, and they liked him. "If the children could vote and I were to run for mayor, I would have my hands down," he boasted. He could give the girl a good home, with careful training, including music lessons, he promised. Rev. L. G. Catchpole was also a caller at the city hall, where he found Mr. Anderson, and told him that in case he couldn't find the children a home, he had several places where he knew they could be located.

INSURANCE AGENTS ADOPT NEW RATING

Changes in Local Fire Insurance Rates Take Effect When Policies Expire.

Last evening the Board of Janesville Insurance Agents met in the offices of the secretary and treasurer, Charles S. Cleland, to discuss the new rates that have been fixed for local property. A group of experts under the direction of H. C. Griffing of Milwaukee have gone over every piece of property in this city and fixed a rate depending on the nature of the buildings under insurance. This is the first time that property in this city has been rated for insurance purposes since 1898. In many cases the rates have been raised, and in some instances the rates have been lowered. The board passed favorably on the new rates and from now on these rates will be in force. If a property owner feels that his rate is too high he may make a schedule of his property and extra charges are made for insurance on his property. In many cases a bad wall, open windows, or a poorly constructed door will cause an increase in the rate on the building. In fact anything that would make the building more liable to fire will tend to increase the rate. After these schedules have been received by the local agents, a property owner can lower his rate in many cases by remedying defects that are outlined in the schedules.

The new rate takes effect only after the expiration of policies, and if a policy is written under the old rate has several years yet to run, the old rate stands. This is true where the rate has been increased or decreased. No rebates will be granted, nor will any excess rates charged. The local board is composed of nearly all of the local agents. F. L. Clemons is the president of the board, and Charles S. Cleland is secretary and treasurer. Miss Mabel Best is the chief stamping clerk. She has all the schedules of property in the city and to her each member of the board is required to send a daily report which contains all the essential elements of the policies written during the day.

THERMOMETER DROPS TWENTY DEGREES IN A VERY FEW HOURS

Janesville Has Touch of Real Cold Winter Weather in a Few Hours Today.

Janesville had a touch of genuine winter weather this morning when the thermometer dropped from around forty to forty-five degrees at seven o'clock to twenty degrees above zero at one o'clock. It came without warning after a drizzling rain which fell during the night. Reports from other localities show that similar changes occurred there also. Thirty-Two Degrees. La Crosse, Jan. 23.—The most striking fall in temperature of the winter was recorded here today. At an early hour today the government thermometer stood at 49 above. Six hours later it had fallen to 17, a drop of 32 degrees in six hours. A cold wave is predicted which will take the temperature down to zero mark. Drops Quickly. Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 23.—A drop of 40 to 50 degrees below yesterday's maximum temperature was shown throughout western Missouri, Kansas and northern Oklahoma today. A 25 degree drop was registered in northern Texas. Cold in Omaha. Omaha, Neb., Jan. 23.—The mercury at seven this morning stood at 8 degrees above zero, a fall of 49 degrees since 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A high northwest wind was blowing.

ORDER STREET WORK AT COUNCIL MEETING

Numerous Street Repairing Work Ordered by City Council at Tuesday's Meeting.

Orders were made to Councilman C. K. Millmore, superintendent of streets, at the meeting of the city council Wednesday afternoon, to repair with gravel Logan street from Eastwick street to Ravine. Repairs will also be made on South Third street between Jefferson avenue and Forest Park boulevard. The sidewalk on South Main street from the Cement Post factory to sidetrack of the Sugar company will be repaired with waste material furnished by the Fisher Sand and Gravel company. The brick gutter and sidewalk in the public alley on the north side of Pleasant street, the alley running between Washington and Pearl streets will also be repaired.

An order by Charles Thompson was allowed for three days' special service in May, the bill amounting to seven dollars and fifty cents. The council meeting was then adjourned until Wednesday of the coming week.

HELLO, WHO IS BIG GEORGE? ADV.

Mrs. Mary Weiss and daughter, Miss Nellie Weiss, suffer slight apoplexy early today.

Mrs. Mary Weiss and daughter, Miss Nellie Weiss, 118 North Jackson street, both suffered from apoplexy from coal gas fumes early this morning, but recovered soon after medical attention was given.

When Mrs. Weiss awoke about seven o'clock she felt dizzy and when she attempted to rise staggered so badly she was hardly able to keep her feet. She realized the seriousness of the situation when she managed to get to the sitting room, where the door of the coal stove stood wide open, and at once threw open an outside door. She fell twice in an effort to get to the kitchen to open a rear door.

Miss Weiss was in even a worse condition than her mother. She fell several times after arising and fainted away. Mrs. Weiss managed to summon Dr. W. A. Mann, who called for the pulmotor of the New Gas Light Company. The machine was found to be unnecessary, however, as both revived from the effects of the fresh air after the house was cleared of gas.

Mrs. Mary Weiss and daughter, Miss Nellie Weiss, suffer slight apoplexy early today.

Mrs. Mary Weiss and daughter, Miss Nellie Weiss, 118 North Jackson street, both suffered from apoplexy from coal gas fumes early this morning, but recovered soon after medical attention was given.

When Mrs. Weiss awoke about seven o'clock she felt dizzy and when she attempted to rise staggered so badly she was hardly able to keep her feet. She realized the seriousness of the situation when she managed to get to the sitting room, where the door of the coal stove stood wide open, and at once threw open an outside door. She fell twice in an effort to get to the kitchen to open a rear door.

Miss Weiss was in even a worse condition than her mother. She fell several times after arising and fainted away. Mrs. Weiss managed to summon Dr. W. A. Mann, who called for the pulmotor of the New Gas Light Company. The machine was found to be unnecessary, however, as both revived from the effects of the fresh air after the house was cleared of gas.

The Yellowstone National Park

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawash."

THE Yellowstone National Park is a public pleasure ground, maintained by the United States government for the enjoyment of the people and the brown bears of the nation.

The park is typically American because of its size. It is the largest park open to the public anywhere. Many nations could not have a park of this size, unless they borrowed some territory from their neighbors. It has about 3,500 square miles, and is not fenced in. This is carelessness of course, and leads to some trouble, but the government has never had time to dig the post holes.

The Yellowstone Park is situated in the northwest corner of Wyoming, about 125 from the center of population, including Pullman, fare. One might think from its inaccessibility that it was a postoffice, but in this case the government had some excuse. The park is where it is because it was impossible to move the scenery of which it is composed to some more centrally located spot.

Scenery and natural curiosities are the strong points of the Yellowstone Park. It contains several mountain ranges, a plateau, a large number of canyons, a large lake, a 300-foot waterfall and a magnificent collection of geysers. In fact the park has a monopoly of geysers in this country and geysers who do not like the price of admission are at liberty to jump off the dock.

The Yellowstone Park is 11,000 feet high in some spots and in others reaches so far down that the water in the springs is red hot and smells of sulphur. Watching the geyser throw water at the dog star, boiling eggs in the mud pots and escaping from the tame bear, catamounts, mountain lions and rattlesnakes are the favorite occupations of the tourists. Guns are not allowed in the park, and the bears and buffalo are so tame that they will frequently walk up to a shivering stranger and attempt to borrow a chew of tobacco from him.

The Yellowstone Park has the grandest and widest scenery on this continent, and if it were near New York the government could make millions by charging admission. It also contains another great American curiosity—good roads. Automobileists who have traveled mostly in Illinois and Missouri frequently go to the park to see these roads alone.

How to Save Your Eyes

Try this Free Prescription.

Do your eyes give you trouble? Do you already wear eyeglasses or spectacles? Thousands of people wear these "windows" who might easily dispense with them. You may be one of these, and it is your duty to save your eyes before it is too late. The eyes are neglected more than any other organ of the entire body. After you finish your day's work you sit down and rest your muscles, but how about your eyes? Do you rest them? You know you do not. You read or do something else that keeps your eyes busy; you work your eyes until you go to bed. That is why so many have strained eyes and finally other eye troubles that threaten partial or total blindness. Eyeglasses are merely crutches; they never cure. This free prescription, which has benefited the eyes of so many, may work equal wonders for you. Use it a short time. Would you like your eye troubles to disappear as if by magic? Try this prescription. Go to the nearest wideawake drug store and get a bottle of Optima tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water; drop in one tablet and allow it to thoroughly dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. Just note how quickly your eyes clear up and how soon the inflammation will disappear. Don't be afraid to use it; it is absolutely harmless. Many who are now blind might have saved their eyes had they started to care for them in time. This is a simple treatment, but marvelously effective in multitudes of cases. Now that you have been warned don't delay a day, but do what you can to save your eyes and you are likely to thank us as long as you live for publishing this prescription. Advertisement.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."
—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."
—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

She did not quite approve of this. She was sure that she had seen some wondrous acting there in Jonesville. Had she not wept her eyes out over a new play, entitled "East Lynne," the previous winter? Had not another novelty, which the bills announced came straight to Jonesville from a metropolitan run of many weeks, and which was known as "The Two Orphans," held her spellbound for an evening? Had not the leading men in these productions been invariably very different in their appearance from any of the Jonesville youth, and therefore romantically attractive; had not the leading women worn enormous jewels and extraordinary, yellow hair which she had envied fiercely? Her own hair was rich, dark brown. She thought it very commonplace.

She looked at him somewhat coldly. It was plainly time to turn from gossip to pure business.

"I've worked all the morning with the auditor upon a statement, which shows the year's business up to the first of this month," she notified him gravely. From an upper drawer of the big desk at which she had been seated she secured a long, formidable-looking paper and, rising, approached him with it. "Do you care to go over it now?"

He eyed it askance, as if it might have been a dangerous thing and liable to sting. Business! Should he ever really discover how to feel the slightest interest in or understanding of it? What a tiresome looking thing it was.

"No; not right now," he told her, almost shivering. "I—Mr. Wallace promised to do all that for me."

She put the statement back into her desk, a little disappointed. "Then he'll be here this morning?"

"Yes; he'll be here right away. He had to go to the barber shop." He laughed. "I shavemyself, thank God!" he added fervently.

Her manner now became more serious and rather puzzling. It was not as if he had done anything which displeased her, it was not even as if she thought he might; it was only that of the delightful woman who is wondering, if, presently, she may not think he might. She was not suspicious, she suspected that she might suspect. He knew it; men always know when women are beginning to wonder if they had not better very soon begin to wonder. It's the only intuition men have. The others are all feminine monopolies.

Presently, while he waited, acutely conscious that some unpleasant element had entered into the situation; but densely ignorant of its character; and while she calmly went about the business of her office management, at which it may as well be stated now as ever, she showed unmistakable signs of perfect competence, she went to a complicated filing cabinet, extracted from it certain other papers, carried them across the room to the desk near which he had found a seat, laid them on that desk, then slowly turned and faced him.

"Do you know that Mr. Pembroke, of the Consolidated, is here in town?" she asked, after a second's hesitation. To her great satisfaction, which she would not for the world have admitted, he did not hesitate, before he answered; he did not try to beat around the bush; he indulged in no evasions or delays of any kind whatever.

"Yes, I know it," he said promptly. It may be that some detail in his tone or manner reassured her, at any rate her voice, when she spoke next, was free from a certain icy hint of criticism which undoubtedly had crept into it.

"Did he come here with you?"

"No; he followed me here."

"Have you seen him?" She made no attempt to offer an excuse for cross-examining him; she evidently asked the question as an interested party who has a right to be informed. Was she not a citizen of Jonesville and an employee of the Jones Pepsin Gum Company?

"No; I have not seen him, but Mr. Wallace saw him last night and turned down his offer, too."

Instantly the reserve, which, intangible but perceptible, had affected her, dropped from her. She was no longer in the least suspicious.

"Oh, I'm so glad!" she exclaimed cordially.

But he failed to note this circumstance; he failed to ward against oncoming danger. As a matter of fact he was not thinking of her as an employee of the Jones company, he was not thinking about Jonesville, he was considering his own pressing need for money and the delightful possibility that through Pembroke, in one way or another, that need must be relieved.

He rose and paced the floor with light and hopeful tread, wholly without apprehension.

"We gave him to understand that we wouldn't sell for less than a million and a half," he said this half proudly. Then, with the accents of a hoper: "We expect him here at eleven o'clock with his answer."

Her face took on a puzzled and disapproving frown. "But you just gave your word to the men that—"

Now he spoke definitely and crisply. No one listening to him could imagine that he did not mean exactly what he said; that he had not carefully considered every meaning of each syllable that he was uttering.

"Oh, don't be afraid," he assured her. "I meant exactly what I said to Higgins."

She sighed with real relief. "I don't mind telling you, Miss Richards, that when I came here yesterday my intention was to sell this business and get it off my hands at any price or sacrifice."

The mere statement of this evidently past and gone intention was a shock to her. He noted, and not without emotion—mind that: Broadway unmistakably was touched; that her face blanched at the thought of that which he had definitely decided not to do.

The young man was beginning to think; he was forming some faint realization of the fact that his own troubles were but somewhat unimportant bubbles in a sea made up of everybody's troubles. The thought was forming in his mind that, while he had been severely worried about ways and means for getting luxuries, these people, here in Jonesville, who had lived and probably would die without ever having heard the names of many of the things his sybaritic soul had learned to crave, had felt themselves confronted by the possibility of loss of the necessities.

"Indefinitely, but for the first time in his life at all, he saw how grim the struggle for a bare existence is with the majority; how, although they strain and strive to their limit of ability, they never feel quite safe in their possession of the means for getting it. He acknowledged to himself a feeling of embarrassment as he considered the undeniable selfishness of his previous existence.

But he brightened visibly, as he went on. He had learned his lesson and had learned it thoroughly.

"Carnegie couldn't buy the plant this morning," he said simply. "I've offered every dollar he has in the world. Mr. Wallace and I sat up talking it over until two o'clock this morning. I told him everything you said, and went over the whole situation with him. I promised to take his advice, and he's convinced me that the right thing to do is to stick right here and put up a fight for these people, the same as my uncle did."

Her reserve quite vanished; as in the way of women, she took credit for an intuition which her previous manner had not indicated. Where she had been suspicious of a reason for suspicion, she became enthusiastic over reason for enthusiasm.

"I knew you would!" she cried. "I knew—I knew you would!"

She had not known he would; she had feared, had half believed that he would not; but that now made not the slightest difference with her firm belief that she had known he would. Nor had the fact that Broadway, a short minute before, had suspected, with good reason, that she seriously doubted him, any influence whatever on his deep pleasure when he discovered that she did not—did not because she could not, not because she would not.

Men do not think clear to the bottom of these things. They take what women give them, when they give them anything, and are humbly grateful and surprised because they get a smile when they deserve one, rather than a brick when they do not deserve one.

Nothing which the world has ever offered to the gaze of the philosopher has been one-half so pitiful as the astonished gratitude of the right-minded male when he finds that the one female for whom he has begun, consciously or without his knowledge, to live his life and do his deeds, does not utterly condemn him when he has done his level best and that best has been worthy. Men are the world's natural "come-ons," women the world's natural vendors of psychological, sentimental and often very raw gold bricks.

So when Jones suddenly declared that she had known he would, Broadway did not let it pass with an unappreciated smile.

He was definitely disappointed her distress was more or less alleviated the next morning, for he burst forth somewhat wildly:

"What I've needed all along was an incentive—something to spur me on!"

Something to inspire me. What I've needed was—"

He could not complete the sentence. It was as if his tongue had found an insurmountable obstruction in the groove of language which it had begun to follow and had to leap out to a side grove.

An expression of disgust grew on his face. He hesitated, flushed, then reached his hand into his pocket and drew forth the paper on which he had labored with such assiduity and such a tensely working, cheek manipulating tongue in the small hours that morning.

"What I've needed was"—he once more said, in desperate endeavor to remember what came next, and, finding it impossible to continue with his recitation, looked at her wild eyed, disappointed, self-disgust writ plain upon his face, and dropped his hands in helpless and disorganized fashion to his sides.

precisely. "Of course you did," but looked at her with gratitude alight in his pleased face and humbly queried, "Did you?"

For a moment the fact that she declared that she had known he would be decent and not villainously selfish so completely overwhelmed him (and please do not forget that she, within a minute, had admitted that she thought him capable of basest selfishness) that he could not find words with which to proceed conversationally. All men are that way.

But presently he recovered self-possession and continued:

"Now, I don't know anything about business, and I don't know anything about money, I never did a day's work in my life for the simple reason that I never had to."

He looked at her with a shamed smile, the first evidence that he had ever shown of anything but pride in his ability to live fully with enormous and successful effort.

She was listening intently. All women are intent to breathlessness when they are hearing any man tell his unworthiness; if there is a hint of a confession of real wickedness in his declaration they will listen with an absorption which approaches a hypnotic trance.

"I've never done anything good, because I've never had anything good to do," Broadway went on, before he reached the next full stop.

She sat absolutely spellbound. Did she feel a vivid hope that he would go into detail of the things which he had done which were not good? Such recitals always pain good women exquisitely, yet they never shun them, never interrupt them—never, by the way, forget them or fail to have them at their tongues' ends afterwards, when, by recalling them, they can abash the man who in a moment of unguarded foolishness has made his villainies. This was not brilliance on his part; it was sheer luck.

If she was definitely disappointed her distress was more or less alleviated the next morning, for he burst forth somewhat wildly:

As the celebrated soprano began to sing little Johnnie became greatly exercised over the gesticulations of the orchestra conductor.

"What's that man shaking his stick at her for?" he demanded indignantly.

"Sh-h! He's not shaking his stick at her."

"But Johnnie was not convinced. "Then what's she hollerin' for?"

"I am glad to find you better," said the physician to a famous comedian upon paying him a professional visit one morning. "You followed my prescription of course?"

"Indeed, I did not, doctor," retorted the sick man, "or I should have broken my neck."

"Broken your neck?" exclaimed the doctor in amazement.

"Yes," said the other, "for I threw your prescription out of the window."

An old gentleman, always polite to ladies, was asserting one day that he had never seen a really ugly woman.

A woman with a flat nose, overbearing him, said:

"Sir, look at me, and confess that I'm truly ugly."

"Madam," he replied, "like the rest of your sex, you are an angel fallen from the skies; but it was your misfortune, rather than your fault, that you happened to alight on your nose."

TARIFF ON IVORY DISTURBS MARKET FOR COTTON CLOTH

New England Manufacturer Tells How Changes in Duties May Upset Business Conditions.

[By Winfield Jones.]
Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—A New England manufacturer of cheap cotton cloths, while in Washington the other day, says the New York Evening Post's Washington correspondent was asked by one of his acquaintances, "How's business with you?" "We have been hurt and very much disturbed by the changed conditions in the billiard-ball business. Then he went on to tell, by the way, an explanation of his old reply, a curious and interesting story which shows more clearly than any amount of abstract philosophical argument why business men, and particularly manufacturers, become apprehensive and excited when the tariff is about to be revised, whether upward or downward. This is the tale he told:
"The tariff is like a buzz saw; it's a dangerous thing to tinker with. You never know when and how you are going to be hurt when congress starts to make changes in the schedules. I believe in an adequate protection of American industries, and a year ago that any American industry could be hurt or disturbed by raising the tariff duties on any item in the schedules; yet my own business has been disturbed, and my product has been closed, and I have had to open up a new field of business, because the Underwood tariff act contains this phrase:
"Ivory tusks in their natural state or cut vertically across the grain only, with the bark left intact, 20 per centum ad valorem."
"Tusk ivory has always been on the free list until the democrats, in making the last tariff bill, put a 20 per centum ad valorem duty on it. You naturally ask what a duty on tusk ivory has got to do with the cotton-cloth business. I would have asked the same question a little while ago. Now I know, and to my cost. Tusk ivory comes from East Africa, and transferring it from the free list to a duty of 20 per cent has just about wiped out our export trade to the ivory coast, amounting to about $2,000,000 per year.
"Since 1849 one firm has been exporting American products to East Africa and Red Sea ports, in exchange for the products of those countries the chief of which has always been ivory. The chief exports varied in the past, but of late years cotton-cloth has supplanted other exports. For the collection and shipment of ivory etc. to this country, and for the sale and distribution of cotton goods in the East, this firm maintained houses, for example, at Zanzibar, Aden, and other places. The firm was about to establish a house in the Congo. At such places the actual collection of the ivory throughout the elephant country, and the final distribution of the cotton goods, are done by native traders, with whom the firm made the exchange, and to whom sometimes it gave credit as high as $50,000. They would not take our cotton goods, but we bought their ivory. Cotton cloth for a long time has been a recognized medium of exchange, and more desirable than money. Thus, in the Congo the trade is through an Indian, Sir Ali Wiseram, who maintains many stations up to the Uganda country, at Zanzibar, through Hassan Balandina and at Aden, through Mehemmed Messa.
"While the tariff bill was pending, Arnold Cheney & Co., of New York, through whom our products were sold, and exchanged for tusk ivory in Africa, made representations to the senate finance committee of what would happen to the trade and how it would be destroyed if a duty was put on ivory tusks. They showed that in 1912 they had traded 2,659 bales of cotton to these exchange places. That was the first year for cotton at Zanzibar, British Sudan, up to May, 1913, they had sold more than during the whole of the previous year. Hitherto Congo ivory had been obtainable only at Aden. The ivory brought into this country was manufactured into billiard balls, backs for hair brushes and hand mirrors and other toilet articles. The importation of the tusks in exchange for the cotton cloths had thus served to build up another flourishing manufacturing industry in this country.
"It was pointed out to the senate committee that the imposing of a duty on tusk ivory would certainly curtail the selling of cotton cloth in East Africa, and that in all probability an import duty would operate prohibitively on the importation of ivory. Both of these assertions have proved well founded. What we feared would come to pass has come to pass. So far as we are concerned, the manufacture of billiard balls and other products out of ivory has ceased and the factories are closed. We are no longer sending cotton cloths to the old market. The raw ivory now goes to France, Italy and England, in exchange for cotton cloths from those countries. I don't know of a sharper example of the laws of trade and of how the tides of commerce are changed when any slight obstruction is placed in their way.

FARMERS WILL NEED HELP WHEN SPRING RUSH STARTS

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—Although at present farmers have more hands looking for work than can get jobs, the tide will turn in March and there will not be enough men to go around. This was stated by William M. Leiser, superintendent of Wisconsin farm laborers' courses here. He declared that as soon as farm work is organized to make employment steady for all farm help, a better class of farm laborers will be attracted. He suggested that farmers organize into a sort of employment bureau to get capable help. As a result, under the initiative of W. L. Ames of Oregon, there was formed a Dane county farm labor bureau to carry out this plan of securing farm help. It is hoped to weed out the undesirable and to some extent the inefficient, and to turn to farm work many of the laborers who are fitted for it. An important service of farm labor bureaus, he held, is looking out for immigrants who have been agricultural workers abroad, from going into other employments here. Farm work for such is better than construction gangs, which have an over-supply, and agriculture would be benefited.

STARTED LIFE AS A MESSENGER BOY

Alfred H. Smith.

Alfred H. Smith, who on January 1 will succeed William C. Brown as president of the New York Central railroad, began his railroad career as a messenger boy in the service of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway in 1879. He was made a clerk, but quit and joined a construction gang. He is now vice president of the road.

STATE COMMISSION PLANS ROAD SCHOOL

Program Is Announced for Third Annual Meeting of County Supervisors of Highways.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—Governor McGovern and Justice R. D. Marshall, supreme court, are down for addresses at the third annual road school of the Wisconsin highway commission Feb. 1-13. The program was issued today. The governor will extend the welcome. Judge Marshall will talk on "Co-operation in Road Work." W. O. Hotchkiss, secretary, will speak on "The Necessity of a State System of Road Construction." Chairman J. A. Hazelwood will tell why the road school should be held. H. J. Knelling, Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Highway Commissioners' Association, will respond to the governor's address of welcome. Practically all members of the commission's staff are on the program for talks.
Chairman C. H. Crownhart of the industrial commission will discuss the employers' liability law as it affects state aid road and bridge construction. At a dinner for the county commissioners Secretary of State Donald will speak on the farmer and the good roads movement; Ernest N. Warner, Madison, on the city merchant and the good roads movement; Chairman Hazelwood on the professional man and the good roads movement, and Assistant Secretary of State L. B. Nagler on state taxes.
Manufacturers will have the usual extensive display of road machinery, and the program contains several addresses on this subject.
The Wisconsin Highway Commissioners' Association will hold its annual meeting Thursday, Feb. 12. The state highway commission consists of J. A. Hazelwood, Madison, chairman; W. O. Hotchkiss, Madison, secretary; F. E. Turneure, Madison; John S. Owen, Eau Claire; and J. H. Van Doren, Birnamwood.

BOYS ARE NEGLECTED FOR WANT OF PROPER CARE SAYS GOVERNOR HODGES

Kansas City, Jan. 29.—"For all the money spent to improve our wheat, our cattle and our business industries, hardly a dollar is laid aside to assist the boy who has been handicapped for want of proper parental care," said Gov. George H. Hodges of Kansas, addressing today's session of the annual convention of the Southwest ern Lumbermen's Association on the topic "Father and Son." Gov. Hodges made a plea for a closer relationship between father and child.

"Our country is money mad," he said. "In our efforts to accumulate wealth we neglect the duties we owe our future citizens, the small boys."

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A WORD FOR THE WEALTHY.

A FEW days ago I had the privilege of meeting a man who, while he inherited a large fortune and might dwell in luxury and never work at all, yet in comparative simplicity and works eight hours a day on scientific research.

As I talked to this remarkable man, these words from Agnes Repplier came into my mind: "Civilization in its final outcome is really the debt of leisure; and the success of any society worth considering is to be estimated largely by the use to which its fortunate put their spare moments." We hear a great deal about the various heads of society. To my mind, one of its greatest needs is more men and women like this man, more men and women of the leisure class who regard their wealth as an opportunity to make themselves useful in some nonremunerative employment, and not as a license to live in luxury and ease—more "fortunate" who will put their spare moments to honorable and valuable use.

How wealthy people can be really happy when they know that they are absolutely useless and when they know that the wealth which gives them ease and luxury means that at the other end of the scale there must be men and women who work all the days of their lives and yet cannot be sure of the bare necessities of existence, I cannot understand.

They read about in the newspapers and hear of half-starved child they see in the street, would make their hearts ache with a sense of personal responsibility. "Oh, that's all very fine," some one says, "but just give me a few hundred thousand dollars and see what she would do. I don't think I should give it all away."

No, my friend, I don't think I should give it all away, but I'm not asking those who have money to give out of the sweat and toil of other men's lives to some good purpose, and if that wealth is a terrible temptation as well as an opportunity, and if that never knows what one should do until one has been tried.

Stevenson speaks about the money which supported him during his first long illness as "the loan which by the hands of his father mankind had advanced him for his sickness." When he was afraid that he was not going to get better, he took a simple manner, and grudging himself all out necessities because he did not feel that he had the right to take from mankind any larger loan than necessary. "But as soon as he began to perceive the change for the better" (he concludes this account of himself) "he felt justified in spending more freely to speed his return to health, and trusted in the future to lend a help to mankind as mankind out of its treasury had lent a help to him."

We need more of Stevenson's splendid spirit and high sense of obligation in the world, and I have courage to believe we are going to get it. The growing interest in social uplift and the desire of the younger generation of the wealthy class to do something besides merely being in society is a fine sign of the times. The "fortunate" seem to be waking up.

the stalks of a bunch of asparagus into half-inch lengths, and boil slowly for an hour in three cups of salted water. When the stalks are tender, drain through a colander, pressing and rubbing the asparagus that all the juice may exude. Return the liquid to the fire and keep it hot while you cook together in a saucepan a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour, and pour upon them a quart of milk. Stir until smooth, and add the asparagus liquor slowly with a cupful of asparagus tips already boiled tender. Have ready beated the yolks of two eggs, pour the hot soup gradually upon them, stirring all the time, return to the fire for just a half minute, season to taste and serve.

Caramel Junket—Two cups of milk, one-third cup of sugar, one-third cup of boiling water, one junket tablet, few grains of salt, teaspoonful of vanilla, whipped cream, sweetened and flavored, chopped nut meats.

Heat the milk lukewarm, caramelize the sugar, add the boiling water, and cook until the syrup is reduced to one-third cup. Cool and add slowly to the syrup. Reduce the junket tablet to powder, using a small mallet, add to the mixture, with salt and vanilla. Turn into a glass dish, let stand in a warm place until set, then chill. Cover with whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Jellie Prunes—One-third pound of prunes, two cups of cold water, boiling water, one-half cup of cold water, one-half pound of gelatin, or two and one-half tablespoons of granulated gelatin, one cup of sugar, one-quarter cup of lemon juice.

The Kitchen Cabinet

IF WE continue borrowing for sleep, though we may postpone a settlement for years, the final inevitable result will be physical and mental bankruptcy.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

During the cold weather some good combinations of the cheap cuts of meat or the good, wholesome rabbit makes a good meal.

Barbecued Rabbit—Lay the rabbit in salt water for half an hour; drain and dry, wash freely and lard with strips of bacon. Put into a baking pan and pour in a cupful of boiling water. Cover with another pan and steam until tender. Then uncover and baste with the following: Four teaspoonfuls of vinegar, two of mustard, one tablespoonful of currant jelly and two tablespoonfuls of butter. When nicely browned lay on a hot dish and butter generously.

Lamb's Liver en Casserole—Wash and wipe a sliced liver, and lay aside to dry, while frying six slices of bacon. Strain out the bacon and return the fat to the pan. When it is hissing hot, return the liver to the pan and sear on both sides. If you desire to have the dish especially nice, add half a can of mushrooms and put them with the liver into the casserole. Cover with broth or, if that is not at hand, boiling water. Cover and cook in a slow oven for two hours.

Calfs Brains on Toast—Scald the brains and throw at once into very cold water. This makes them firm and white, and the membrane can then be easily removed. When cold, beat to a paste and add three eggs well beaten. Season to taste and fry in a hot frying pan in a little butter. Line a platter with strips of buttered toast and pour the brains and egg over, and serve. Pigs' brains are as good as calves' brains.

Pork chops put into the oven with a small amount of hot water will bake nicely without drying.

Women Worth While.

MRS. MORRIS SHEPPARD.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon. The woman in public life who remains enthusiastic and unwearying throughout a Washington season, with its round of official and private entertaining, is rare. The woman who not only accomplishes this feat, but who finds time to read with her husband the good old books that a certain Mr. Dickens, a Mr. Thackeray and other gentlemen of their time used to write, is a paradox. She has achieved both poise and a sense of leisure.

"My husband and I," says Mrs. Sheppard, "are fond of society, but we do not allow it to interfere with our favorite recreation, that of reading together. I don't know just how we accomplish it, but we do find time to enjoy together a great many of those standard books which are so much more enjoyable when read aloud than when read to oneself. Did it ever occur to you how few modern stories there are that stand this test of being read aloud? One usually takes the latest book mass through it on a rainy day and forgets it by the time the sun shines again. But the old books and the rare books are mellow and companionable, and leisurely I can recommend them as an antidote for those conditions in the life of the modern woman that make for restlessness, nervousness and discontent."

Mrs. Sheppard is one of the youngest women in congressional circles at the capital. Before her marriage

So Economical!

We want to explain to you how we have arranged to make Snow-Mellow the most economical of desserts for your table. In business there is a certain "overhead" charge against each package—packing, wrapping, boxing, cartage, freight, delivery, etc. And here is how we solved the problem of making Snow-Mellow economical for you. The same "overhead" expense that pays for delivering a ten-cent package to you will pay for delivering five or six or seven times that quantity of Snow-Mellow if we put it all in one package, and that is what we have done.

Instead of putting only enough Snow-Mellow for one dessert in a package and charging ten cents—we put seven times that quantity—enough for seven desserts—in one package, and instead of charging you seventy cents, the price is only 25c—because we save for you the cost of packing and delivering the six extra packages. That is the only fair way. For after you once find how easy to make and how good to eat Snow-Mellow is—you will want to serve it in different desserts several times every week.

So go today, medium, to your grocer and get for your family this exquisite, wonderful Snow-Mellow.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been going with a gentleman for four years; we have been engaged two years. He does not care to get married till next year, but comes to see me every week at my home, without any of the sentimental hugging and kissing, it is all right.

(2) I see no harm in going to an afternoon show with any respectable stay for two or three days at a time, should I be going with him, or should I forget him?

(3) What can I do to make my hair grow?

(4) He seems to have been very faithful to you. You are still quite young and can afford to wait until next fall. He probably feels that he will not be prepared to marry before then. However, if he does not appear to be anxious to marry then, drop him.

(5) Massage it every day with a little bit of vasoline on the tips of the fingers. Brush it thoroughly twice a day and keep brushes and combs very clean.

(6) That is too heavy if you are not quite tall. Eat no starchy foods, such as potatoes, cakes, candy, etc., and do not eat as much as you eat of anything. If you are tall and large-boned, however, the weight is not excessive.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of fourteen, and am going with a boy about a year older than myself. My mother and father like him and think he is very nice. He takes me home from church every Sunday night.

(1) Do you think I am too young to go with the boys? I love him and know he loves me.

(2) Would it be right for me to go to the show with other boys?

(3) Is it right for him to kiss me when he takes me home?

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving 50 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it in side of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and bronchitis.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with a pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help relieve a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualac and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy has often been imitated, but the old successful mixture has never been equaled. It is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your grocer has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

hairpins instead of pins. They will not fall out.

If the soup is too salty, add sliced potato and cook a few moments longer. The potato will absorb the surplus salt.

If soot should be dropped on the carpet, cover it thickly with salt, both may be swept up clean and dry without soiling the carpet.

Three tablespoonfuls of glycerine in a tub of water tends to soften the water for laundry use.

THE TABLE.

Cheese Biscuits—Cook together in small saucepan three tablespoonfuls of butter and flour. When these are blended pour upon them a half pint of boiling water and stir until thick and smooth; add four tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, dash of celery salt and cayenne pepper. Cook stirring constantly, until very thick; remove from the fire and add, slowly, two beaten eggs. Beat for ten minutes and drop by the spoonful upon a greased baking-pan. Drop these cakes so far apart that they will not touch each other. Lay a sheet of brown paper over the top of the pan and set in a hot oven for ten or fifteen minutes. When the biscuits are puffed up and seem nearly done, remove the paper and brown them. Slice a thin-bladed knife carefully under the biscuits to loosen them from the pan and serve at once, as they soon fall.

Potato Salad—Boil eight potatoes that have been peeled in the skins that takes hold of the ordinary cough more quickly, usually conquering it in side of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for spasmodic croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and bronchitis.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualac and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Dep't

In this department we have excelled all competition. This is conceded by all. Selling good merchandise for less money than others is our claim throughout the store, but in the ready-to-wear department we aim only to carry goods manufactured by the best manufacturers in the United States. By buying goods of the most reliable manufacturers every small detail in manufacturing is looked after closely. It is not only that they use the best materials in the way of fabrics but they also look closely after every other small item. We will name a few of the many items which give our garments preference over other makes.

Carefully fitted and quality linings.

Extra buttons for all coats.

Silk covered buttons.

Silk thread for all surfaces stitched.

Button holes that keep their shape.

Lapels that lie flat, and last but not least, the best materials are used. We aim to have all garments not only look comfortable but also be comfortable. They represent the highest coinage in the currency of ready-to-wear values. Even the plain, simple models have elegance and individuality that show at a glance authentic style, as well as goods. We buy only of firms who make a special effort to bring out new styles constantly. They always keep in close touch with Paris creators and we buy the new things as soon as they appear. This is our policy, and it is a big factor in our success. Keeping stocks fresh and interesting at all times is a big part of the progressive store's service to its trade and we are doing just that. The woman who wants to buy now will be glad to know that the assortment we show today are not copies of the early season's productions, but they are just as distinctive and exclusive as the early season's styles were.

FURS! FURS!

We are sole agents for the Revillon Freres furs in this section and request everyone in need of furs not to buy without first seeing this representative line in the United States. The furs most used are Hudson Seal, Mole, Russian Pony, Mink and Lynx. In muffs and scarfs there are many graceful effects in the natural animal shades, finished with heads and tails.

The wearer of Revillon furs can be absolutely certain of the correctness of style and genuineness and excellence of the materials. They are the largest buyers of raw skins in the world and make up the furs in their own workrooms under the most favorable conditions. Every garment is identified by the Revillon label, the guarantee of reliable furs. Almost all at one half price.

HOW many people are there right here in our home town that have some special talent that they could easily convert into coin of the realm if they were only daring enough to start to take the plunge into the limelight of publicity.

"What folks will say" is the bug-bear that deters them. They forget that while the other people are criticising they are drawing a check, for time and talents wisely invested.

At heart we are all certain we can do some one thing well. The work we like. The work that the doing of gives us genuine pleasure.

Why not "start something?" Gentle reader, this means you! That is if you are in the vast army of earners—or would-be earners.

If you follow this wholesome advice, advertise. Call your home paper and they will fix you up a classy little ad that will make of your dream child a husky little reality. One that will bring in the cash on his return trips. Honestly speaking, it's the cash we are all after. Get your share! Advertise! If you advertise persistently you'll get the lion's share! Try it and see for yourself!
